

Raincoast Host

Last updated: Feb 2011

Almost a million visitors come to the Pacific Rim each year, and front-line staff in hotels, restaurants, t-shirt shops, and countless other stores are asked questions about the natural and cultural history of the area. "Why does it rain so much here? What makes the tide go in and out? Where can I go to see the old-growth rainforest?" As local ambassadors of the area, we should be able to correctly and confidently answer these questions!

Raincoast Host is a fun and informative one-day 'crash course' in about the local environment and cultural history of the Clayoquot Sound and northwestern Barkley Sound area. Whether this is your first or fifth season working in the area, or even if you're just an interested local resident, we guarantee that you will learn something new. Raincoast Host is usually offered in May and June each year, in both Tofino and Ucluelet.

Our 2011 Program is now being planned and will take place in May and June 2011
